George G. Meade, Md. [redacted] stated that he would arrange for such weekly "Know Your FBI" articles received by him to be made available for inclusion in the Maryland Gazette and in the "Sound Off" Newspaper but stated he could not promise such articles would be on a weekly basis.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed is an FBI Crime Resistance Alert to be used as you deem appropriate.

The FBI's Crime Resistance Program is designed to identify those crimes to which citizens are most vulnerable and to encourage citizens to join in the fight against crime. Citizens are not encouraged to take personal action against crimes, but to provide law enforcement officers with the benefit of their "knowledge". Our experience in investigating and prosecuting criminals for violation of Federal laws demonstrates that with full cooperation between citizens, law enforcement agencies, and the media, much can be done to combat crime and reduce its impact on society.

I trust the release will be useful to you and of interest to your clientel.

Sincerely,

Edward D. Hegarty

Dear Sir:

I have enclosed a photograph of Lieutenant [redacted] Maryland State Police, who attended and graduated with the 110th Session of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) National Academy. Lieutenant [redacted] was one of 248 law enforcement officers recently receiving diplomas during the graduating exercise at the FBI training facility, Quantico, Virginia, where the Honorable Warren E. Burger, Chief Justice of the United States, was the principal speaker.

The graduating ceremonies concluded eleven weeks of executive-level training for the officers who came from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and six foreign countries. The United States Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and two Federal law enforcement agencies were represented by officers in the graduating class. These officers join 11,154 others who have completed the National Academy courses which are designed to meet the needs of law enforcement in such areas as management, ethics, court decisions, urban police problems and behavioral sciences.

I trust that the enclosed photograph is useful to you and will be of interest to your readers.

Sincerely,

George T. Quinn
